

Ava C Salter

“If you want to fly you have to give up the things that weigh you down”

Some people are going to tell you your dream isn't worth it, but it is, and I believe that it is. No matter what your dream is, practice, do whatever it takes for your dream to happen. If your dream is to be a cook, or a baker, or an artist. Practice cooking/baking with your parents or grandparents. If you want to be an artist, practice drawing people, animals, places, or whatever you want to draw when you become an artist. There are many things people want to be, keep following your dreams. Just remember I believe in you, no matter what.

“If you want to fly you have to give up the things that weigh you down”