A Motivational Piece of Writing

"If there's a book that you want to read, but it hasn't been written yet, then you must write it." Toni Morrison. A quote that is very easy to take to heart. My Grandfather always has told me that the hardest part of even doing things is beginning. Though we may want to do something we may end up not doing it. As it is the new year this is a perfect example, most new year's resolutions fall flat. We can all observe this in our daily lives, how many times have you fallen out of whatever you said you'd do for new years?

We are in control of our fate (for the most part), we can choose where our lives go. You just have to get up and do it. This quote applies to just about anything, music, games, mental health, physical health. We can make our lives better if we simply live by this quote, if we even just tried to find the motivation so many more opportunities are open to us as people. You are much more powerful than you know, all you need to do is use that power. I have made so much more for myself and others simply by getting up and doing it. If there is something not made, not done, not written, not sung, not coded yet... Then you must create that yourself.

Overall I hope anyone who reads this prospers in life, we must try to make it through all of life's challenges and I believe that motivation is a lot of it. And, yet I know some may not be able to find any motivation and I pray to whatever deity exists that they do get better. Thank you
